How Does a Thing Like that Get Started

A One-Act Comedy

By Pat Cook

produced by special arrangement with Baker's Plays

Directed by Kay Frazier

Synopsis: In this wonderfully convoluted, hilariously funny play, Pat Cook presents us with the anatomy of a rumor. What starts as a simple exercise in the psychology of rumor-passing quickly develops into small town chaos. One rumor dies a quick death, another takes off and has the town in an uproar, all the way up to City Hall!
